

Well Rounded

I consider myself a very well rounded individual. I strive to excel in all areas of my life. I have always done exceptionally well in academics. I have maintained a 4.17 grade point average throughout high school, and prior to high school I had never received less than an “A” in a class. At the same time, I have always been involved in sports both in and outside of school. I played soccer and volleyball for my middle school teams, and in high school I play on varsity volleyball. Outside of school, I play club sports. In addition to sports, in middle school, I was recognized by my art teacher and asked to act as a teacher’s aide for other students, and decorate the stage for the annual talent show. I also have volunteered at a charity event for foster children, and plan to enroll in a voluntary nursing program at St. Joseph’s Hospital. To recognize my efforts, I was given an award my eighth grade year. I was named “Outstanding Graduate” by all of the teachers at Talbert Middle School. Out of 200 students, I was chosen, along with one other boy, to receive the prestigious award. I received it because of my ability to balance both school and extra curricular activities, and excel in both.
