

Comedic Speech

I Remember the Time...

Prompt: Write 2-3 minute a speech about an event in your life (real or fictitious). Describe this event in a funny way, for the amusement of an audience. You may choose to employ exaggeration, sarcasm, clever use of language, or description of colorful characters. Remember that many comedians, including Mark Twain, are “great noticers” of details in life that seem strange or interesting in some way. You may want to employ this method in your own speech.

Rubric:

Content

Introduction – Begin with a hook. Get the audience involved in your story immediately. _____/10

Body – Tell your story. Make it humorous and entertaining. Conflict helps. _____/30

Resolution – Have an ending that makes sense and wraps up your story. _____/10

Presentation

Eye contact/natural speech – Do not read the speech or look only at me. _____/10

Poise and Fluidity – maintain a relaxed posture; don’t fidget, lean, sway, etc; avoid crutch words _____/10

Volume, Inflection and Clarity – Enunciate and speak so that everyone can hear you. _____/10

Total _____/80

Comedic Speech

I Remember the Time...

Prompt: Write 2-3 minute a speech about an event in your life (real or fictitious). Describe this event in a funny way, for the amusement of an audience. You may choose to employ exaggeration, sarcasm, clever use of language, or description of colorful characters. Remember that many comedians, including Mark Twain, are “great noticers” of details in life that seem strange or interesting in some way. You may want to employ this method in your own speech.

Rubric:

Content

Introduction – Begin with a hook. Get the audience involved in your story immediately. _____/10

Body – Tell your story. Make it humorous and entertaining. Conflict helps. _____/30

Resolution – Have an ending that makes sense and wraps up your story. _____/10

Presentation

Eye contact/natural speech – Do not read the speech or look only at me. _____/10

Poise and Fluidity – maintain a relaxed posture; don’t fidget, lean, sway, etc; avoid crutch words _____/10

Volume, Inflection and Clarity – Enunciate and speak so that everyone can hear you. _____/10

Total _____/80

Comedic Speech

I Remember the Time...

Prompt: Write 2-3 minute a speech about an event in your life (real or fictitious). Describe this event in a funny way, for the amusement of an audience. You may choose to employ exaggeration, sarcasm, clever use of language, or description of colorful characters. Remember that many comedians, including Mark Twain, are “great noticers” of details in life that seem strange or interesting in some way. You may want to employ this method in your own speech.

Rubric:

Content

Introduction – Begin with a hook. Get the audience involved in your story immediately. _____/10

Body – Tell your story. Make it humorous and entertaining. Conflict helps. _____/30

Resolution – Have an ending that makes sense and wraps up your story. _____/10

Presentation

Eye contact/natural speech – Do not read the speech or look only at me. _____/10

Poise and Fluidity – maintain a relaxed posture; don’t fidget, lean, sway, etc; avoid crutch words _____/10

Volume, Inflection and Clarity – Enunciate and speak so that everyone can hear you. _____/10

Total _____/80