

A DULL STORY

A boy wakes up in the morning. He gets out of bed and turns off his alarm clock. He takes a shower and dries off. He puts on his clothes. He eats breakfast. He goes to school. After he gets to school, he sees a few of his friends. He goes to his locker and gets a few books. He goes to his first period class. He walks in and sits down at his desk. The teacher says something to him. It was a wonderful day.

Examples:

Happy: Billy sprung out of bed, flipping back his comfy quilt and landing with both feet lightly on the soft carpet of his bedroom floor.

Angry: In one explosive slam, Arnie pounded his fist down onto the screaming alarm clock. Arnie winced as the plastic splinters of his now shattered clock cut into the side of his palm.

Sad: Bert dragged his tired body down the cold tile hallway until he faced his bent, grizzled figure in the mirror. Staring into his own sad eyes, he frowned at himself.
